Official Pope Leo XIV portraits for printing

The USCCB has provided the Holy Father's official portrait from the day of his announcement as Pope Leo XIV and has been given authorization by Vatican Media to distribute this photo to the U.S. dioceses for further distribution to parishes, schools, etc. This image can be printed for your needs. The USCCB says this image should hold up to being printed at size 16x24 and smaller.

Please download links below, or save JPEGs that are also provided, and print as you wish.

[Link to day 1 portrait (red) here]

Further, the Pope's second official portrait, is also available for download, however, this image is lower-resolution and can only be printed at around 5x7.

[Link to second official portrait (white) here]

In both instances, the images are only allowed to be used for institutional purposes, which means, you can't use it to sell things, you can't use it in advertising, etc. Both are only intended to be printed and put on a wall or used on a website page related to Pope Leo XIV.

For more information on Vatican photo use restrictions, go here: https://www.vatican.va/content/vatican/it/special/habemus-papam/habemus-papam-2025/foto-leone-xiv.html